FREEDOM 1ST FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Updating your Account

Anytime there is a major life change such as a birth, death, marriage, or divorce, it is a good time to review the people or organizations you have chosen to receive your money and property. Correctly completing your beneficiary forms and keeping them up-to-date is just as important as having a will for two reasons: 1. Current forms ensure your assets will go where you want them to go regardless of what your will says. 2. Designating a beneficiary often avoids the time consuming and potentially costly legal process. It's a good idea to review your beneficiary forms at least once a year. Life is unpredictable. Update your account today.
